Congressman Scott Franklin's Longworth Office

For more than six decades, Cuba’s Communist Party has suppressed the basic human rights of its people. This past summer, we witnessed a movement by the Cuban people rejecting the communist regime and its brutal actions against any dissent. Despite the violence they suffered in response to the protests, these brave Cubans once again planned to take to the streets to demand their freedom on November 15th. Sadly, the communist regime intervened and suppressed the leaders of the protest before it could begin. It silenced Cuban dissidents with threats of violence, arrests, and blocking internet access. I stand in solidarity with the Cuban people who are courageously standing up for their freedom and basic human rights. As part of my commitment to our Cuban friends, I joined a bipartisan group of lawmakers in cosponsoring the FORCE Act, to prevent the federal government from removing Cuba from the state sponsors of terrorism list until the regime ceases its abuses against its own people.
